BEFORE THE COURT is Plaintiffs' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment, ECF No. 37. Plaintiffs, Estate of Marc A. Moreno, Miguel Angel Moreno, and

ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR PARTIAL SUMMARY JUDGMENT ~ 1

1 Alicia Magana Mendez, move for dismissal of certain affirmative defenses asserted
2 by Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital at Pasco, Inc., and Anita Vallee (“Lourdes 3 Defendants”) in their answer to Plaintiffs’ complaint. ECF No. 30. Having 4 reviewed the briefing, the record, and the applicable law, the Court is fully informed.

5 BACKGROUND

6 This is a civil rights case under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, alleging that Defendants are 7 liable for the death of Marc. A. Moreno, which occurred while he was in the custody 8 of Benton County, Washington. ECF No. 1. Plaintiffs allege that Defendants 9 violated Mr. Moreno’s Fourteenth Amendment rights by denying him adequate 10 medical care or treatment and subjecting him to inhumane conditions of 11 confinement. Id. at 24.

12 The Lourdes Defendants filed an answer to Plaintiffs’ complaint, ECF No. 11, 13 but later amended that answer with Plaintiffs’ permission. ECF Nos. 22, 28, & 30.
14 In the amended answer, the Lourdes Defendants asserted fourteen affirmative 15 defenses. ECF No. 30 at 13. The relevant affirmative defenses to this dispute are as 16 follows:

17 2. Plaintiffs’ injuries or damages, if any, were proximately caused 18 or contributed to by third parties, over whom [the Lourdes Defendants] 19 had no control. This includes, but is not limited to, Benton County, a 20 Washington municipal corporation acting through its own policies, 21 customs, practices and procedures as well as through the Benton County Sheriff’s office and its jail officers/deputies (collectively BCSO jail staff) which include but are not limited to Sheriff Stephen Keane, Undersheriff Jerry Hatcher, Sgt. Paul Frazier, Cpl. Eman Rodrick, Sgt.
Daniel Finley, Sgt. Chad Vandine, Cpl. James Brooks, Cpl. Combs, Ofc. J. Tansy, Ofc. D Miller, Ofc. G Hannaman, Ofc. Blumenthal, Ofc.

1 Matt Armstrong, Ofc. Bailes, and the following officer identification 2 numbers as reflected in the 15 minute observations card watch forms 3 from March 3, 2016 through March 7, 2016 (identification numbers 4 801, 822, 849, 854, 855, 857, 864, 874, 887, 889, 895, 897, 899, 911, 5 915, 919, 920, 921, 925, 927, 928, 936, 941, 952, 955, 956, 957, 961, 6 964, 965, and 966) all collectively “Benton County entities.”

8 4. [The Lourdes Defendants] request[] that the Court, pursuant to 9 RCW Chapter 4.22 and pursuant to federal offset and apportionment 10 law, apportion fault, liability, and responsibility among all persons or 11 entities responsible for Plaintiffs’ alleged claims, injuries and damages, 12 including Plaintiffs, and parties that are defendants or in the future may 13 be defendants even if said entity is later dismissed as a defendant. . . .

14 5. [The Lourdes Defendants] assert a defense to personal injury 15 wrongful death action pursuant to RCW 5.40.060.

16 9. Alternatively [the Lourdes Defendants] are entitled to an 17 allocation of fault, liability and responsibility for the Plaintiffs’ claimed 18 injuries and damages against the Benton County entities (as alleged by 19 Plaintiffs) and to have any such percentage of fault, liability and 20 responsibility for Plaintiffs’ claimed injuries and damages subtracted 21 before any remaining percentage of fault, liability and responsibility of [the Lourdes Defendants] for Plaintiffs’ claimed injuries and damages is applied to any award in favor of Plaintiffs for injuries and damages.
For example, if the trier of fact determines that the Benton County entities are 50% at fault, liable and responsible for Plaintiffs’ claimed injuries and damages, only the remaining 50% of the Plaintiffs’ claimed injuries and damages can be assessed against [the Lourdes Defendants] and the other defendants in this litigation, and as between these collective Defendants additional allocation of fault, liability and responsibility must take place.

10. Additionally, the Lourdes Defendants are entitled to an allocation and segregation of any Plaintiffs’ claimed injuries and damages as alleged by Plaintiffs found to have been caused by any intentional acts or omissions of [the Lourdes Defendants], the other defendants herein, and the Benton County entities and to have any such allocation and segregation attributable to the other defendants herein and the Benton County entities allocated and segregated in such a fashion so that [the Lourdes Defendants] will not be liable therefor.
[The Lourdes Defendants] are also entitled to a similar allocation and

1 segregation of any punitive damages awarded so that [the Lourdes 2 Defendants] will not be liable for punitive damages awarded against any other defendant.

3 ECF No. 30 at 13–16.

4 Plaintiffs move for partial summary judgment on these affirmative defenses, 5 claiming that they all allege a form of comparative fault, contributory negligence, 6 or apportionment, all of which they argue are impermissible defenses to an action 7 under section 1983. ECF No. 37. Defendants argue that they pleaded legally valid 8 affirmative defenses that should not be dismissed. ECF No. 51.

9 LEGAL STANDARD

10 A court may grant summary judgment where “there is no genuine dispute as 11 to any material fact” of a party’s prima facie case, and the moving party is entitled to 12 judgment as a matter of law. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a); accord Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 13 477 U.S. 317, 322–33 (1986). A genuine issue of material fact exists if sufficient 14 evidence supports the claimed factual dispute, requiring “a jury or judge to resolve 15 the parties’ differing versions of the truth at trial.” T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc. v. Pac.
16 Elec. Contractors Ass’n, 809 F.2d 626, 630 (9th Cir. 1987). A key purpose of 17 summary judgment “is to isolate and dispose of factually unsupported claims.”
18 Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324.

19 The moving party bears the burden of showing the absence of a genuine issue 20 of material fact, or in the alternative, the moving party may discharge this burden by 21 showing that there is an absence of evidence to support the nonmoving party’s prima

1 facie case. Celotex, 477 U.S. at 325. The burden then shifts to the nonmoving party 2 to set forth specific facts showing a genuine issue for trial. See id. at 324. The 3 nonmoving party “may not rest upon the mere allegations or denials of his pleading, 4 but his response, by affidavits or as otherwise provided . . . must set forth specific 5 facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.” Id. at 322 n.3 (internal 6 quotations omitted).

7 The Court will not infer evidence that does not exist in the record. See 8 Lujan v. Nat’l Wildlife Fed’n, 497 U.S. 871, 888–89 (1990). However, the Court 9 will “view the evidence in the light most favorable” to the nonmoving party.
10 Newmaker v. City of Fortuna, 842 F.3d 1108, 1111 (9th Cir. 2016). “The evidence 11 of the non-movant is to be believed, and all justifiable inferences are to be drawn 12 in his favor.” Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 255 (1986).

13 DISCUSSION

14 Plaintiffs argue that five of the Lourdes Defendants’ affirmative defenses 15 assert comparative fault, contributory negligence, or apportionment concepts, which 16 are inapplicable in a section 1983 action. ECF No. 37 at 4. The Lourdes Defendants 17 argue that their affirmative defenses are properly alleged. ECF No. 51 at 17.

18 Plaintiffs alleging section 1983 claims must prove their claims with traditional 19 tort law principles of causation, including direct and proximate cause. Galen v. Cty.
20 of L.A., 477 F.3d 652, 663 (9th Cir. 2007); Arnold v. Int’l Bus. Machines Corp., 637
21 F.2d 1350, 1355 (9th Cir. 1981). However, several federal courts have recognized

1 that the traditional tort affirmative defenses of comparative fault and contributory 2 negligence, as well as the concept of apportioning fault among all liable parties, do 3 not apply in section 1983 actions. McHugh v. Olympia Entm't, Inc., 37 Fed. App'x.
4 730, 736 (6th Cir. 2002); Clappier v. Flynn, 605 F.2d 519, 530 (10th Cir. 1979); 5 Acasio v. Lucy, No. 14-CV-04689-JSC, 2017 WL 1316537, at *15–16 (N.D. Cal.
6 Apr. 10, 2017). While defendants to section 1983 actions may argue that other 7 people are responsible for the plaintiff's injuries, defendants may not ask the jury to 8 apportion fault among parties and non-parties, including other defendants, under 9 state comparative fault and apportionment laws. See Logan v. City of Pullman 10 Police Dep't, No. CV-04-214-FVS, 2006 WL 994759, at *2 (E.D. Wash. Apr. 14, 11 2006).

12 Logan explains why comparative fault, contributory negligence, and general 13 concepts of apportionment are inapplicable in section 1983 actions. Taking 14 Washington's apportionment law as an example, the Supreme Court of Washington 15 has previously held that "comparative fault is inapplicable in the context of an 16 intentional tort." Morgan v. Johnson, 976 P.2d 619, 623 (Wash. 1999); see also 17 Welch v. Southland Corp., 952 P.2d 162, 166 (Wash. 1998) (holding that "a 18 defendant is not entitled to apportion liability to an intentional tortfeasor"). In 19 Logan, the district court found that plaintiffs cannot prove section 1983 liability with 20 a defendant's negligent conduct; the plaintiff must prove a higher standard of 21 culpability. Logan, 2006 WL 994759, at *2 (citing Daniels v. Williams, 474 U.S.

1 327, 333 (1986) (“injuries inflicted by governmental negligence are not addressed by 2 the United States Constitution”). Further, the relevant Ninth Circuit Model Jury 3 Instruction for Plaintiffs’ Fourteenth Amendment claim in this case states that 4 Plaintiffs must prove that each Defendant “made an intentional decision with respect 5 to the conditions under which the plaintiff was confined.” Particular Rights—
6 Fourteenth Amendment—Pretrial Detainee’s Claim of Failure to Protect, Model 7 Civ. Jury Instr. 9th Cir. 9.31 (2019); see also Castro v. Cty. of L.A., 833 F.3d 1060, 8 1071 (9th Cir. 2016) (approving Civil Model Instruction 9.31, including that the 9 plaintiff must prove that there was an “intentional decision”). Because Plaintiffs 10 must prove intentional conduct on behalf of each Defendant in this case, and because 11 comparative fault, contributory negligence, and apportionment do not apply to 12 intentional conduct, affirmative defenses based on those concepts are impermissible 13 in section 1983 actions. Logan, 2006 WL 994759, at *2.

14 The Lourdes Defendants argue that their affirmative defenses are appropriate 15 because Washington comparative fault law is incorporated in section 1983 actions 16 through section 1988(a). ECF No. 51 at 17–18. Under section 1988(a), where 17 federal law does not provide a rule of decision for section 1983 actions, federal 18 courts apply state statutes so long as those statutes are “not inconsistent with the 19 Constitution and the laws of the United States.” 42 U.S.C. § 1988(a). State statutes 20 are inconsistent with the Constitution or federal law when they conflict with the 21 main policies of section 1983: deterrence and compensation. Bd. of Regents of

1 Univ. of State of N.Y. v. Tomanio, 446 U.S. 478, 488 (1980). Federal courts finding 2 that comparative fault and contributory negligence are not applicable have found that 3 these affirmative defenses are inconsistent with the policies of deterrence and 4 compensation. See, e.g., McHugh, 37 Fed. App'x. at 736 n.4 (“To apply 5 comparative fault statutes in civil rights actions would result in the protection 6 afforded under § 1983 to differ from state to state and would be inconsistent with the 7 underlying policy of deterrence and compensation.”). Adopting the reasoning from 8 McHugh, applying Washington’s comparative fault and contributory negligence 9 statutes would be “inconsistent with the Constitution and the laws of the United 10 States,” and, therefore, would not be applicable in this action. 42 U.S.C. § 1988(a).

11 The Lourdes Defendants’ supporting case law on this issue is not persuasive.
12 ECF No. 51 at 18. The first case concerned the difference between negative 13 defenses and affirmative defenses rather than whether contributory negligence is a 14 proper defense in section 1983 actions, and there is no indication that the District 15 Court of New Mexico considered the same question that the Court considers today.
16 Martinez v. Naranjo, 328 F.R.D. 581, 597–98 (D.N.M. 2018). The second case 17 rejected a pro se plaintiff’s motion to strike “any insufficient defense” because the 18 plaintiff’s motion did not provide “any basis for striking the affirmative defenses.”
19 Byas v. N.Y.C. Dep’t of Corr., 173 F.R.D. 385, 389 (S.D.N.Y. 1997). The third case 20 did not directly address the question of whether contributory negligence is an 21 appropriate defense in a section 1983 action; instead, the District Court of Nebraska

1 discussed the defense while describing material facts in dispute while ruling on a 2 motion for summary judgment. Ellis v. Kneifl, No. CV 85-L-299, 1986 WL 15946, 3 at *2 (D. Neb. Sept. 12, 1986). Therefore, the Court is not persuaded by these cases.

4 The Court turns to the affirmative defenses to determine whether they assert 5 comparative fault, contributory negligence, or apportionment. The Lourdes 6 Defendants' second affirmative defense alleges that Plaintiffs' injuries "were 7 proximately caused or contributed to by third parties," including Benton County.
8 ECF No. 30 at 13. Under traditional concepts of causation, the Lourdes Defendants 9 may argue that other defendants or third parties are liable for Plaintiffs' injuries. See 10 Galen, 477 F.3d at 663. However, the Lourdes Defendants may not argue that other 11 parties, such as Benton County, "contributed to" Plaintiffs' injuries in an attempt to 12 apportion fault. ECF No. 30 at 13. To the extent that the second affirmative defense 13 asks the jury to apportion fault among all Defendants and third parties, the second 14 affirmative defense is dismissed in part. But the portion of the second affirmative 15 defense that states that the Lourdes Defendants are not liable because they did not 16 cause Plaintiffs' injuries will not be dismissed because that defense is permissible.

17 The Lourdes' Defendants' fourth affirmative defense requests that the jury 18 apportion fault among everyone responsible for Plaintiffs' injuries, including non-19 parties. ECF No. 30 at 14. The Lourdes Defendants admit that their fourth 20 affirmative defense asserts comparative fault. ECF No. 51 at 18. Therefore, the 21 Lourdes Defendants' fourth affirmative defense is dismissed.

1 The Lourdes' Defendants fifth affirmative defense asserts a defense under 2 Wash. Rev. Code § 5.40.060. This statute states that it is a "complete defense" to a 3 wrongful death or personal injury action that "the person injured or killed was under 4 the influence of intoxicating liquor or any drug at the time of the occurrence causing 5 the injury or death and that such condition was a proximate cause of the injury or 6 death and the trier of fact finds such person to have been more than fifty percent at 7 fault." Wash. Rev. Code § 5.40.060(1). As discussed above, the Lourdes 8 Defendants may assert that they did not proximately cause Plaintiffs' damages.
9 However, asserting a defense under this statute calls for asking the jury to apportion 10 fault between Plaintiffs and Defendants. Therefore, the defense is impermissible.
11 The Court strikes the Lourdes Defendants' fifth affirmative defense.

12 The Lourdes Defendants' ninth affirmative defense states that they are entitled 13 to an allocation of fault with Benton County and the other Defendants. ECF No. 30 14 at 15. Apportioning fault is impermissible. Therefore, the Court strikes the Lourdes 15 Defendants' ninth affirmative defense.

16 The Lourdes Defendants' tenth affirmative defense states that they are entitled 17 to a segregation of damages related to intentional acts or punitive damages. ECF 18 No. 30 at 16. They argue that under Washington law, damages caused by intentional 19 torts are segregated rather than compiled into the allocation of fault, and that under 20 federal law, punitive damages are specific to each defendant and are segregated as 21 well. ECF No. 51 at 13. As discussed, damages are not apportioned in section 1983

1 actions. Further, punitive damages are specific to individual defendants under 2 federal law. See Punitive Damages, Model Civ. Jury Instr. 9th Cir. 5.5 (2019) (“You 3 may impose punitive damages against one or more of the defendants and not others, 4 and may award different amounts against different defendants.”). The tenth 5 affirmative defense is restating the law and irrelevant as an affirmative defense.
6 Therefore, the tenth affirmative defense is dismissed.

7 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

8 1. Plaintiffs’ Motion for Partial Summary Judgment, ECF No. 37, is 9 GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.

10 2. The Lourdes Defendants’ second affirmative defense is dismissed in 11 part, to any extent it seeks to apportion fault among parties and non-parties, but is 12 not dismissed to the extent that it asserts that the Lourdes Defendants are not liable 13 because other people are liable.

14 3. The Lourdes Defendants’ fourth, fifth, ninth, and tenth affirmative 15 defenses are dismissed.

16 IT IS SO ORDERED. The District Court Clerk is directed to enter this 17 Order and provide copies to counsel.

18 DATED August 5, 2019.
